MAKING A HOME.

The Husband Has to Do His Share as Well as the Wife.

Men are what their homes make them—of what their homes made of them in infancy and youth. That women make homes has been sung and preached until one reads with hearty satisfaction Colonel Higginson's introduction of an address delivered last summer at the commencement of a girl's college. He had been adjured, said the speaker, not to talk to students and alumnae as women, but as human beings; to leave the matter of sex in education out of sight for one hour. The masculine element is as essential to the right composition of the home as lemon-juice to the sugar and water of sherbet. The household where there is not a man's hat on the hall-rack is a craft minus one side-wheel. The music of daily life without the heavier, up-bearing timbre of a bass voice, is like the singing of canaries, very tuneful and very thin.

The domestic duties of him who stands in the place of pater-familias are not fulfilled when he has supplied grist to the mill. His wife may be the nominal captain. He is part owner and first mate. If she be the acknowledged queen of the realm he is the power behind the throne. Which jumble of metaphors, done into straightforward English, signifies that a woman can not, single-handed, make a perfect home. It is a joint-stock concern, in which each individual of the household has a share, the parents being the heaviest owners and the board of directors. Any thing else is a loosely-cohering association of human particles, chased for the sake of convenience under one name, and held together by habit and policy.—Home-Maker.

The French Tricolor.

The Carnavalet Museum contains also abundant materials to enable us to trace the history of the flag of Paris, which has become the tricolor flag of France. In brief, its history is this: When the first French revolutionary leader, Etienne Marcel, roused his fellow-citizens to claim their rights in the fourteenth century, he adopted the colors red and blue because they were the colors of the old Parloir-aux-Bourgeois or Hotel de Ville, which was the seat of the municipality and the center of the revolution. In 1789 the Parisians followed the example of Etienne Marcel, and the Parisian cockade which Major Bailly presented to Louis XVI. when the King returned to Paris on July 17, after the fall of the Bastille, was blue and red. The King fixed it on the large white cockade which he wore on his royal hat, and thus formed a tricolor cockade. Lafayette, prompt to seize the political union which this chance juxtaposition seemed to symbolize, induced the Commune of Paris to accept this addition of white to the red and blue, and in 1790 the National Assembly ordered that the old white flag of France should be replaced by a flag reproducing in vertical bands the red, white and blue of the national cockade.—Theodore Child, in Harper's Magazine.

This Original and World Renowned Dietetic

Preparation is a Substance of UNRIVALLED PURITY and MEDICINAL WORTH.

A solid extract derived by a new process from very superior growths of Wheat—nothing more. It has justly acquired the reputation of being

A STANDARD DIETETIC PREPARATION.

And has been recommended and certified to by a large number of Chemists and Physicians, representing a very high degree of medical science, as the Salvator for Invalids and the Aged.

A SUPERIOR NUTRITIVE IN CONTINUED FEVER, and a RELIABLE REMEDIAL AGENT in all Diseases of the STOMACH and LIVER, often in instances of convalescence over patients whose digestive organs were reduced to such a low and sensitive condition that the Granum was the only thing the stomach would tolerate when life seemed depending on its retention, and, while it is an INCOMPARABLE ALIMENT FOR THE GROWTH and PROTECTION OF INFANTS and CHILDREN, we do not hesitate in saying, that no food for the nursing babe at all compares with a healthy mother's yield of milk; when however, the mother's milk is insufficient, either in quantity or in nutritive substance—the IMPERIAL GRANUM is, as has been proved in thousands of cases, THE FIRST FOOD.

Unlike those preparations made from animal or vegetable matter, which are liable to stimulate the brain and irritate the digestive organs, it contains in its elementary composition That which makes Strong Bone and Muscle, that which makes Good Flesh and Blood, that which is easy of Digestion, never Constipating, that which is Kind and Friendly to the Brain, and that which Acts as a Preventive of those Intestinal Disorders incidental to Childhood. And while it would be difficult to conceive of anything in food or drink more creamy and delicious, of more nourishing and strengthening as an aliment in FEVERS, PULMONARY COMPLAINTS, GASTRITIS, DYSPEPSIA and GENERAL DEBILITY, its rare medicinal excellence in all intestinal diseases, especially in Cholera, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhea and Cholera Infantum HAS BEEN INCONTESTABLY PROVEN.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous Alkali and Mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The Vegetable Kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agencies. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the Blood, for the Liver, for the Kidneys and for the Stomach. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that argument as to its merits is useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.
